CLUB NOTES

TODAY'S GAME. This afternoon we entertain Oldham and we extend a welcome to the officials, players and supporters of the Lancashire club.

The team commenced the season with a good win over St. Helens, last Saturday, and on Wednesday night the side went to Warrington, in search of a second victory. Oldham were unable to reproduce the form shown against St. Helens however and they were finally beaten by Warrington by 25 points to 9.

In last season's campaign the two games between Leeds and Oldham resulted in a victory for each side, for Oldham pulled off a 27-12 win at home in the first match last August, and in the return clash at Headingley in March this year, Leeds gained a 10-0 victory.

The Oldham team of course includes several personalities and in Yorkshire County stand-off Alan Kellett they have one of the best off-halves in the game today. His display for the County against the Australians, at York last season, is one which will be long remembered by Yorkshire followers, and Alan is a real power behind the current Oldham pack, which includes £9,000 loose forward Geoff Robinson. In the backs, strong running Alan Davies and Ike Southward are always an attraction to watch, while the goal-kicking feats of Bernard Ganley, recently taken off the transfer list, are well known on both sides of the Pennines.

LEEDS v. HUDDERSFIELD. Our team took time to settle down on Wednesday night but after a rather scrappy first half, the side clicked into top gear and Huddersfield had no answer to the incisive bursts of our back division. The combination of Jones, Evans and Thornett, which sent Derek Hallas in for a try, was Rugby League at its best and Wilf Rosenberg again proved his try-scoring skill with two more tries.

The team has undoubtedly made a fine start and on present form it will command a much higher place, in the League table, than last season. Well done, boys!

PEN PICTURE — K. THORNETT

Ken Thornett, was born at Waverley, Sydney in November 1937 and he first began to play football at Clovelly Primary School in Sydney. He played in the school team for three years—as a wingman—and later on, as a student at Paddington Technical School, also in Sydney, he played for two seasons at stand-off half.

At the age of fourteen Ken was the youngest member of the Eastern Suburbs under-17 side which took part in the Lennox Cup Competition. After leaving school he captained the Eastern Suburbs side which won the Junior League Competition in 1953. Ken was still playing at stand-off half and up to this time all his football had been Rugby League.

He turned to Rugby Union at seventeen, when he joined Randwick, one of Sydney's top teams. After a year in First Grade Rugby Union, Ken gained the first of his many senior representative honours, when he was selected, as inside-centre, for Sydney against a County Districts XV. Once again, at eighteen, he was the youngest member of the team, as he was also a year later when he was selected for his State XV, New South Wales, in a match against Queensland. Ken was still playing at centre, both for the State and for Randwick, and indeed he had not yet played in his favourite position of full-back!

In 1957 a cartilage operation, which rendered him inactive for a long period, almost certainly prevented his selection for the Wallabies side to tour the British Isles, for prior to his cartilage trouble, he was being freely tipped as a likely candidate for a place on tour.

Ken returned to State Football again in 1958 when he played for New South Wales against the Maoris when they toured Australia, and in 1958 also he was awarded the prize for the Best and Fairest Player of the Year, presented by the Sydney Sun Herald newspaper.

By this time Ken had moved to full-back for the first time in his career, and he played in that position for his club. He was still with Randwick and representative honours came his way again when he played for his State against Queensland and when he captained a Sydney XV which toured the Southern States of Victoria, South Australia and Western Australia. He was vice-captain of his club team, which at that time had five internationals in its ranks.

Ken came to England in January of this year and after a spell in Rugby Union in the south of England, he came north and joined Leeds. He has already displayed many of the fine qualities which gained honours for him in his native land and we trust that Ken, a most likeable and loyal player, will enjoy a happy and successful career with Leeds.

COACHES TO FEATHERSTONE. Wallace Arnold Tours will be running coaches to Featherstone on Wednesday next. Coaches leave The Calls, Leeds 1, at 5.30 p.m. and the fare is 3/-.
