Good teamwork in industry is just as important as in sport.

As part of the recently formed Allied Steel and Wire Ltd., it's something we understand well.

Cardiff Rod Mill and Cardiff Bar and Section Mills form two divisions from the fifteen that make up the new independent in the steel industry.

We're all working hard together to create a better future.

May we wish Cardiff RLFC all the success we wish ourselves.

DRAGON DIARY

Today we entertain the current second division leaders Oldham and extend a warm welcome to the team and supporters. As we approach the mid-way point of the season the Dragons are poised to move into a promotion spot. We are only two points short of one of the four promotion places and a win today can bridge that gap. I am sure that today's encounter will be a tough but thrilling competition.

We have received, through the Rugby League, an invitation from one of the founder members of Rugby League in France, the Villeneuve Club, to play them on the evening of the 15th May under floodlights.

This would be the first occasion that the Blue Dragons play outside the shores of Great Britain and it would provide an interesting test of our ability at international level. If the match goes ahead, (and incidentally the trip might include a visit to the French Rugby League Cup Final, scheduled to take place at Toulouse on the 16th May) we might consider chartering an aircraft, should the numbers justify it, for this event.

The cost of the trip will depend upon the number of people travelling and hotel availability. Any supporter who might be interested in making the trip should write to me at Ninian Park.

Welcome to Higginshaw Junior Rugby league team, under the direction of Mr. R. Goodwin, who are providing today's pre-match entertainment with a game against our Junior Blue Dragons.

They've brought two coach loads of supporters with them and it is heartening to see such encouragement given to youngsters just starting to play the game. I hope that our boys get the same support when they play their first away match later in the season.

DAVID WATKINS DEFINES

Disappointing is the only word I could find last weekend to describe the fortunate victory over Doncaster.

I suppose it is one of the most frustrating aspects of being a coach or manager however much you explain or cajole to have to sit and watch a talented side struggle to break out opponents offering little more than hard work leaves one very restless.

The Dragons squad, however, is a very experienced one and ultimately out there on the field the onus rests on them. Last week apart from a few isolated individuals the commitment was sadly lacking.

It was very apparent that several players were having problems lifting themselves for the likes of Doncaster. Let me add irresponsible attitudes like that amongst professional players cost teams valuable promotion points and they very nearly robbed us of a win last week.

I will not tolerate anything less than 110% from any Cardiff player as we attempt to follow the likes of Fulham by gaining promotion to the first division at the first attempt.

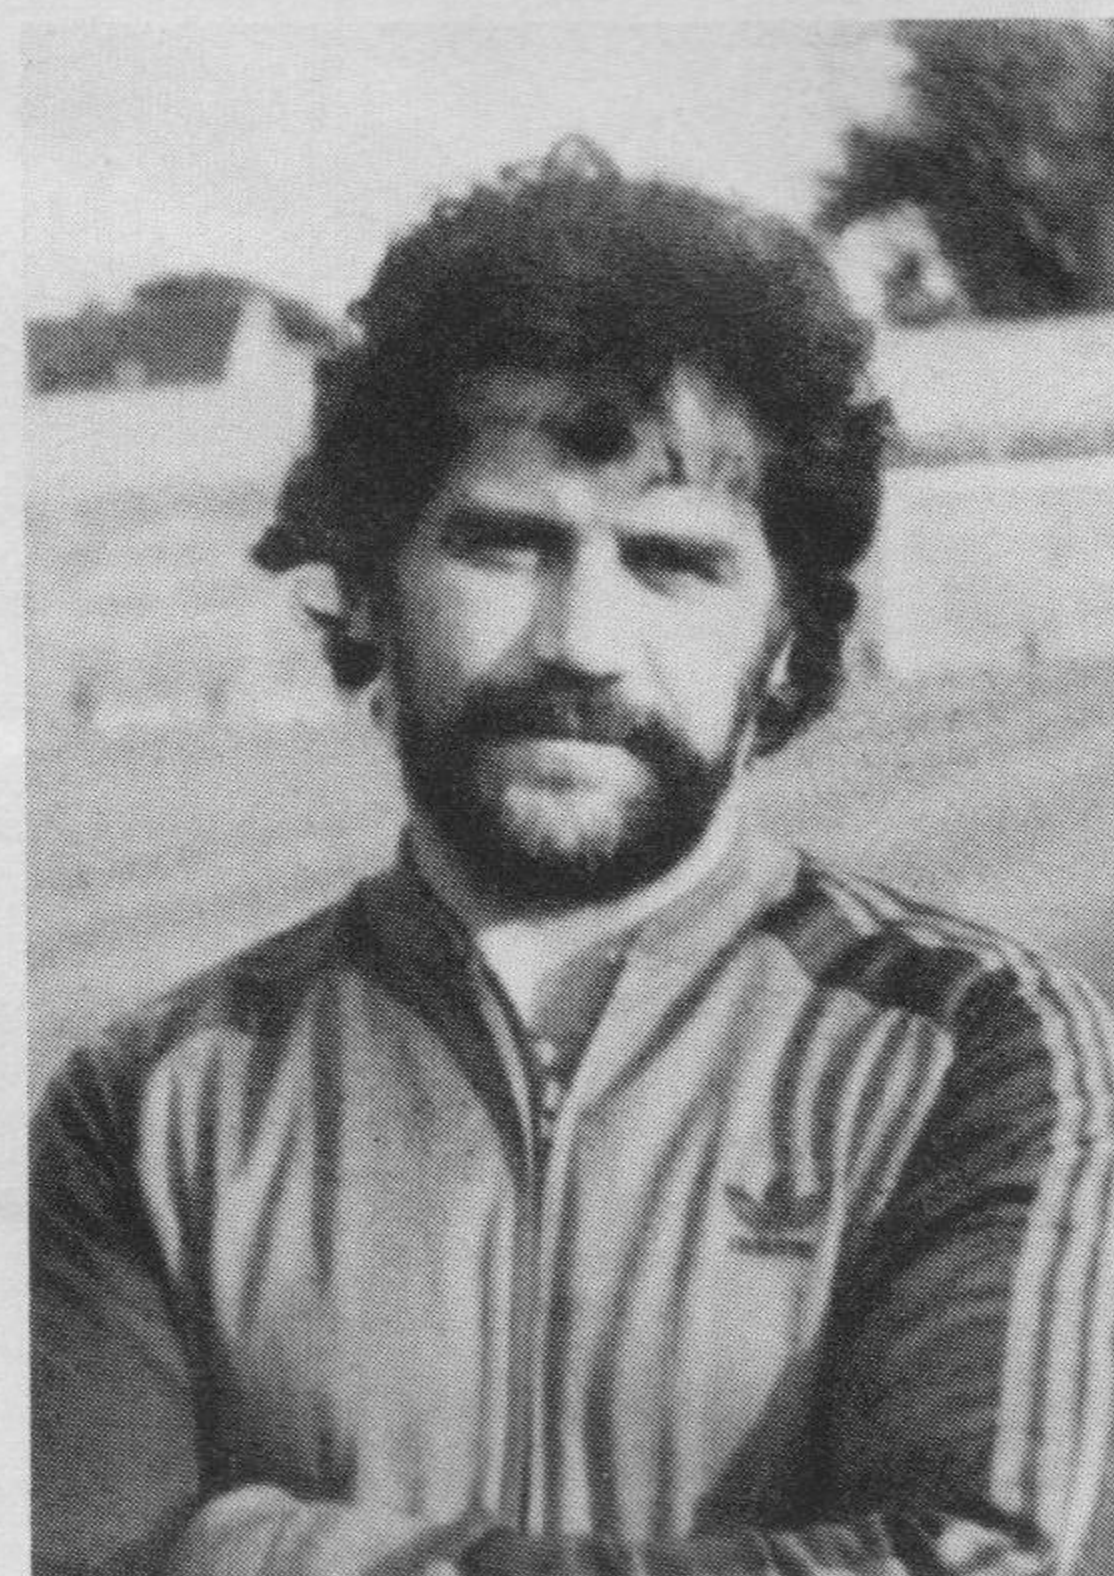

The only positive asset to be gleaned from last Sunday's performance (apart from the two points) was that the spirit of the side won through in the end. To be able to manufacture victory when everything seemed to be going against the team with dropped passes and missed penalties proved to be a commendable effort.

Today offers the opportunity to put the memories of last week behind us. Oldham are an accomplished side and thus fit the bill perfectly as the kind of team we like to play against.

We have saved our best rugby for the likes of Salford, Carlisle and to a lesser extent Halifax, and therefore I will be looking to see a revitalised Dragons side take the field this afternoon.

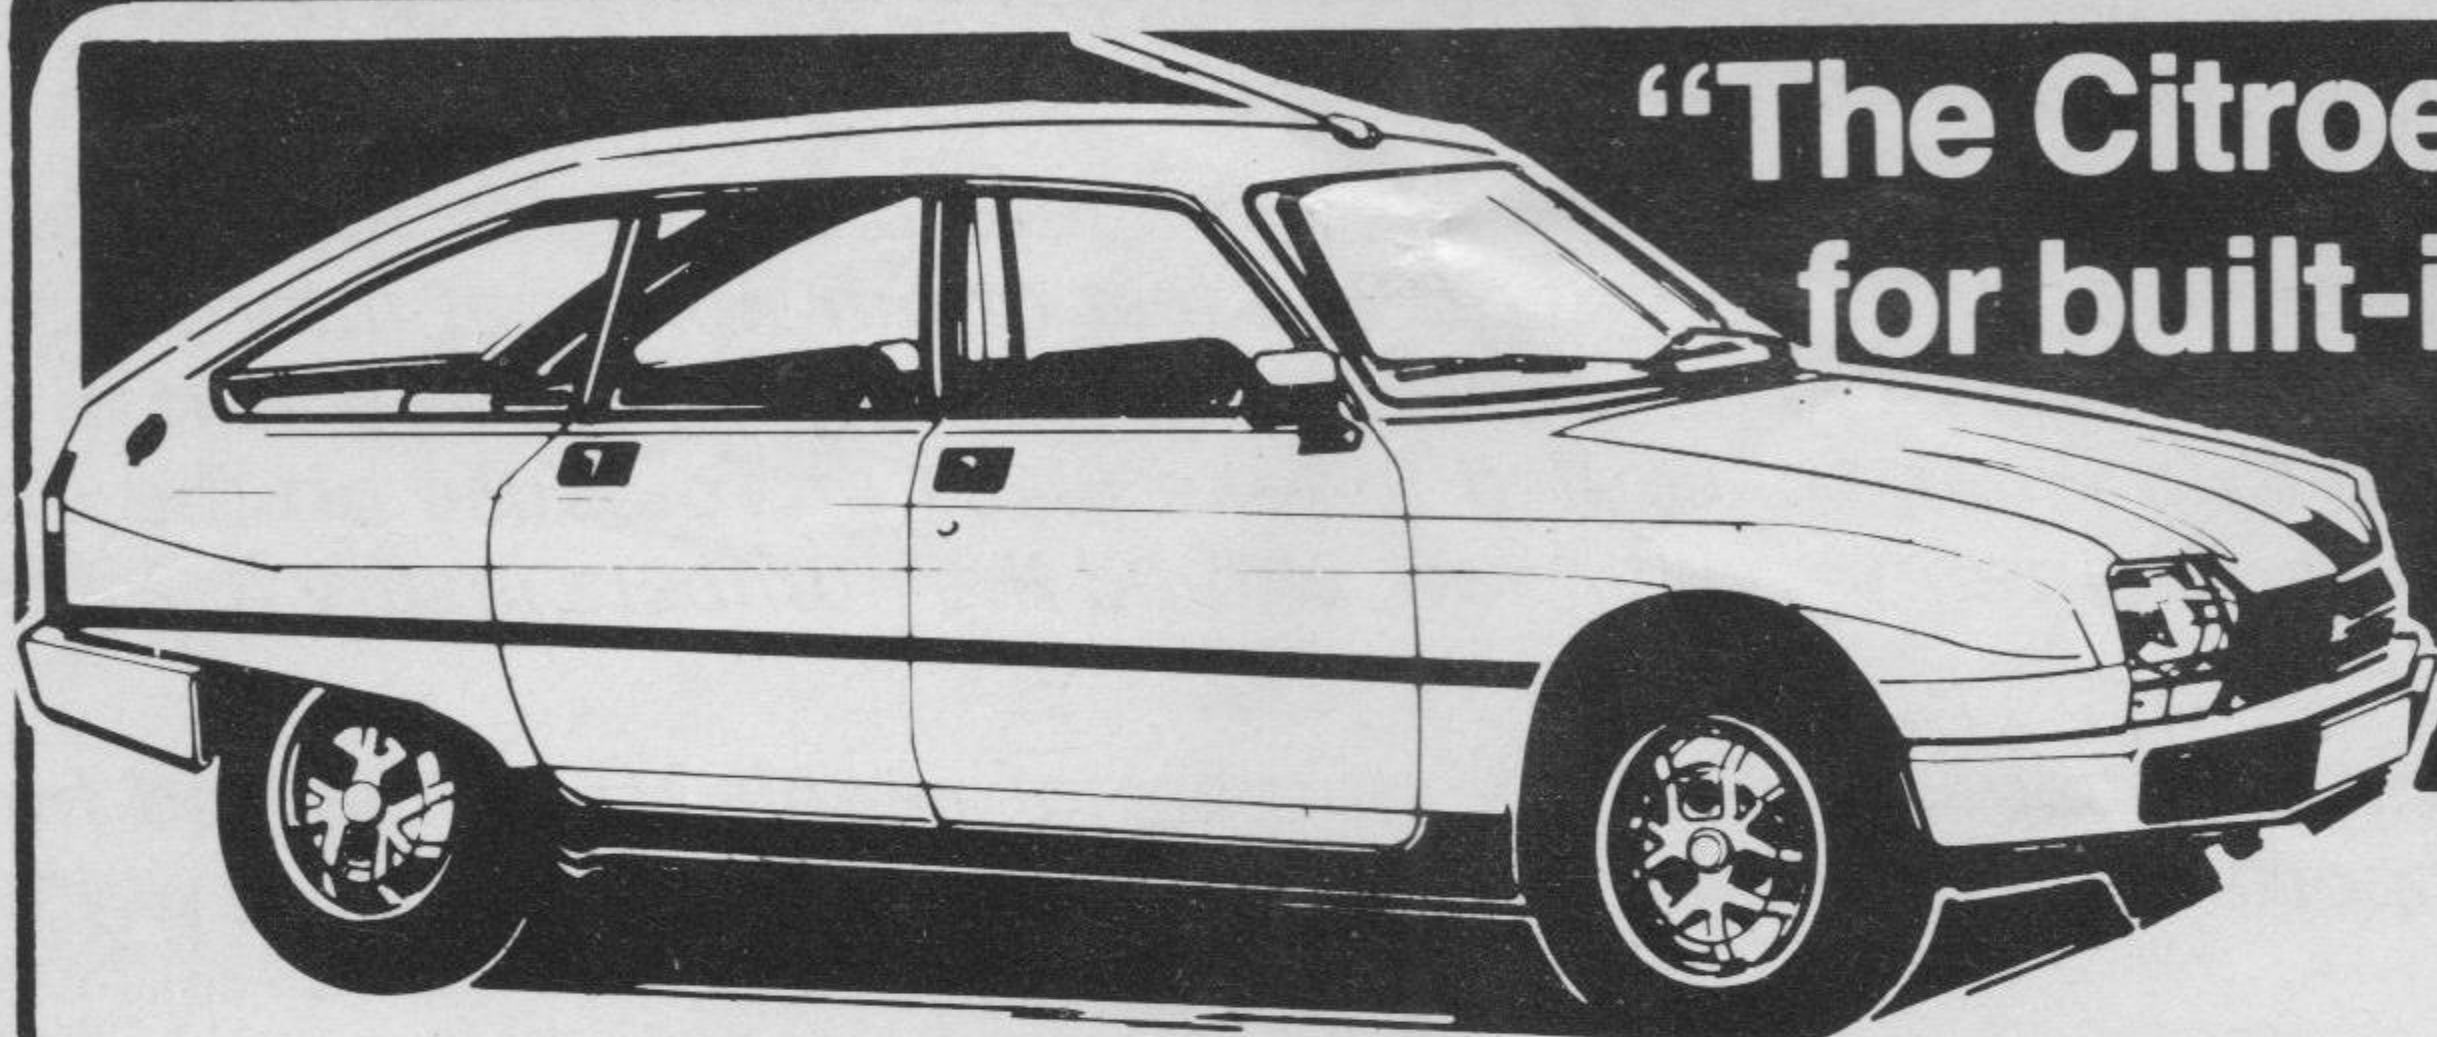

I would also like to add that it has been a pleasant occurrence in the past few weeks to see the Dragons get more than their fair share of media coverage — newspapers, radio and TV alike.

A just reward for the squad as far as I am concerned for being one of the few Welsh sides to be turning in successful performances on a consistent basis. Though I must say I would be even more happy to see the Dragons equally successful amid similar Welsh successes in the differing sports.

However, should the Dragons continue to perform as they did last Sunday at home to Doncaster when in the "shop window", the team can hardly expect to be the toast of Cardiff the following morning.

TONY McAVOY'S TALK-IN

South Wales correspondent of the Rugby Leaguer

Oh how the Gods smiled sweetly on the Dragons last weekend against Doncaster.

Only a coat of paint separated the teams at the end — the paint being on the right side (from the Dragons' point of view) of David Noble the Doncaster full back's three penalty kicks from in front of the posts (the last one in the final minute) that flew narrowly wide.

Full marks to Doncaster for a gritty performance with John Buckton, as I had anticipated, adding another try to his impressive list.

If the home side's excuse for last week's poor performance revolved around the dubious pretext of struggling against the poor sides the whole side has a chance to redeem themselves against today's visitors, second in the table Oldham.

The Lancashire club have proved themselves to be one of the more formidable outfits in this season's second division and had a commendable run in the John Player Trophy before Christmas that only ended in the semi-final against the eventual winners of the trophy first division Hull.

Players to watch out for on the Oldham side include their joint top try scorers this season scrum half Paddy Kirwan and winger Phil Ward with nine to their credit. Ward has only recently come off the transfer list but with one hat trick to his name this season against Huyton he will need watching by the Dragons defence.

With a fine goal kicker in Mick Parrish and a wily duo in charge of the team in the shape of Frank Myler and Peter Smethurst the Dragons can anticipate a battle royal particularly with next week's fixture involving the two sides at the Watersheddings.

In terms of promotion form it does not need me to explain the games are four-pointers as will be many games for several clubs in the coming weeks.

One player in particular on the Dragons' side will be looking to fare well this afternoon — the former Oldham winger Chris O'Brien. He remarked cheerfully earlier in the week if he had scored a try for each season he'd spent with Oldham he would look on the game as a memorable occasion (see the Player Profile).

Last week's results in the second division once again saw the leading group of sides consolidate their positions near the top of the table. Only Keighley of the top six faltered — and they were at home to third placed Workington.

Two consecutive defeats at home does not augur well for the Keighley side as the fixtures begin to really bite from now in.

Well, a fortnight today the Dragons will play host to the season's "big match" — the home tie with cup holders Widnes in the first round of the Rugby League Challenge Cup.

If the side is to compete successfully with the Lancashire giants they need to begin toning up by disposing of promotion rivals Oldham this afternoon.

Dear Sir,

May I congratulate you on bringing a great game to South Wales. Would it be possible for you to get the local papers, TV and Radio CBC to give you more coverage on and off the field in future, as their coverage has been very poor in the past?

I have been to a few away matches and every home match and by what I've seen your whole set-up is one of the best, from the programme to the pitch.

With better support from the public maybe we can have a better team as well. Better coverage from the press could help to bring the crowds in.

Also I note in your programme that we could book in the clubhouse for away games, but as not everyone buys the programme, maybe a message could be put over the P.A. system during the game.

Going back to the press, maybe you could get them to run a player profile (just like the programme) to introduce the players to the public.

You've got a good clubhouse so perhaps you could run a disco once a week/month with all proceeds going to the Dragons? Or maybe a charity skittle match between the players and one of the local skittle teams will help to get the Dragons a little better known (try and get in "The Guinness Book of Records").

You could try to get better support from the districts outside Cardiff such as Barry, Penarth, Sully, Newport, Bargoed, Caerphilly, Pontypridd etc.

Long live the Dragons!

Best wishes,

JULIA BARRETT

P.S.—Try and tighten up the big gaps in defence.

[Thank you Julia. Your comments concerning the media have been noted. Any constructive criticism is very welcome. Your ideas concerning the utilisation of the Bluebirds Club are interesting. Dear Sir,

May I applaud the recent Echo coverage given by Alun Rees to Cardiff's Rugby League—when the Blue Dragons played Rochdale Hornets.

The report made a pleasant change from reading one of your ex-reporter's comments each Monday in a popular daily tabloid, where little of the actual match is reported and the size of the crowd and the Cardiff public's apathy to the sport appears to be the popular thing to knock.

Good luck to David Watkins and company in this venture, which for purely entertainment value, deserves to be a success.

Please, for those fans who are interested, keep up the reporting standards. I'm sure the Cardiff crowd will increase when the Dragons' promotion drive takes off in the next few weeks, and that the interest will be sustained.
