WATERSHEDDINGS SURVEY

We reached the second round of the Lancashire Cup by beating Blackpool Borough 27-10 at Borough Park, and that qualified us to meet Warrington at Wildespool in the second round last Sunday.

These notes had to be written before week-end so, at the time of writing, it was not known how we had fared at Warrington - only that St. Helens, Carlisle and Fulham were already through to the semi-finals.

The draw was due to be made last Monday, it having been delayed to wait for the outcome of our tie at Warrington, so let us hope that Oldham were involved.

We certainly had the encouragement of a good win against the Wires in our rearranged Slalom Lager championship match here at Watersheddings last Wednesday night.

We struggled to put our game together for a long time at Blackpool, scoring in the last 20 minutes, and although we lost only 20-15 at St. Helens in the next match it was not one of our better displays.

But there was a big improvement when the Wires came to Watersheddings a week ago and we won 22-12 to haul ourselves into the top eight of the First Division though, to be honest, we had played a game more than most other teams.

To win at Bradford with 12 men, lose at Saints by five points although playing well below our best, and beat Warrington by scoring four tries to two perhaps indicates how far we have come in the past year or two.

Certainly many good judges of the game are now saying that Oldham can hold their own in the top flight this season after moving up and down between the divisions with monotonous regularity over the past few years.

Against the Wires, our four tries were scored by Alan McCurrie, Ray Ashton, Mick Worrall and Des Foy, the latter's a stunning try from half way which you will have to go a long way to see bettered.

Mick Parrish landed five goals as well as bursting through the Wires defence to set up the first try for McCurrie and setting Foy on his way with a good pass near the half-way line.

It was a new experience for Mick to play at stand-off in senior rugby and he came through it very creditably indeed.

You read in the local Press that last week we clinched the signing of local lad Charlie Willis, a 19-year-old stand-off half from the Saddleworth Club, who has often impressed us over the past couple of years.

Chris was captain of Lancashire and England boys a year or two ago and last season he played for the Lancashire under-19 squad.

He had played previously for our 'A' team and our colts team, as an amateur, and we were impressed, too, when he took part in our pre-season warm-up match and did not look out of place though operating opposite and alongside many of our senior players.

We wish Chris a long and happy stay at Watersheddings and we are confident he will do well here at his home-town club.

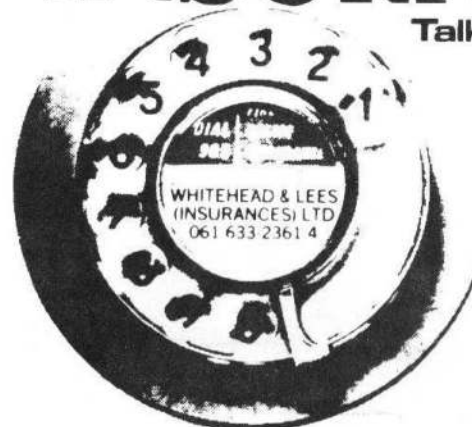

We also granted a transfer-request from long-serving winger Geoff Munro. Geoff wrote in to the committee last week asking to be placed on offer and in view of his good service to the club over the past ten years or so we have listed him at what we consider to be the bargain price of £5,000.

At that sort of money, Geoff can be a very useful signing indeed for some clubs and, at 28, he still has an awful lot of rugby left in him.

We also reduced the fee on Phil Ward from £8,000 to £5,000.

RUGBY LEAGUE IN FRANCE By Tom Webb

Like the game in this country, Rugby League in France was a development from the Rugby Union game. Union had been played as far back as 1877 across the Channel but in the early days there were no international encounters with British national sides.

During the first half of this century France was admitted to the Rugby Union International series, having games with England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. In 1931 France was expelled from the international scene on the grounds of professionalism and rough play. Fifty years later, the French Rugby Union clubs are tempting players from Rugby League by paying more money for playing terms than Rugby League clubs can afford. Now that Rugby League is advancing, the Rugby Union authorities are turning a blind eye to open professionalism in French Rugby Union circles.

In 1933-34 Australia played England at the Stade Pershing in Paris and their 63-13 win captivated the onlookers who immediately started to organise Rugby League Football. Jean Gallia the famous international was the greatest of the pioneers. He recruited other players who undertook a tour of this country, playing six games, in 1933-34, winning one against Hull and losing five to Wigan, Leeds, a Rugby League thirteen, London Highfield and Salford.

Several clubs including Salford, Swinton, Leeds, Hunslet and Castleford made short tours in France thus spreading the Rugby League gospel. Villeneuve made a short tour over here in the early part of season 1934-35.

Oldham staged a game with Villeneuve on September 17th 1934 winning by 26-25. Oldham's team was Tommy Rees (4 goals), Ray (try), Bardsley (try), Stephens, Thompson, Egan (try), Givvons (try), L. Rees, Scaife, Clayton, Blossom, Ashworth (try) and Pugh (try).

Villeneuve's thirteen was L'Hespitaou, Saffaigle (try), Moisset, Cougnenc, Sanz (try), Nogueres, Roussie (five goals, two tries), Puyelo, Porra, Daffis, Cammo (try), Rouse, Rabot. The referee was A.E. Harding of Broughton. I don't know the attendance but the receipts were given as £196. It was a great disappointment to us that the fabulous Jean Gallia did not play. He had played against Yorkshire a couple of days before.

When French teams began to take part in official international matches, Jean Gallia was the sole selector for quite a long period.

When the John Player Year Books were published my note book about the game in France was loaned but was never returned, hence I had to start rebuilding my records of the French game. My early notes have never been adequately replaced.

When Hitler overran France in the last war, the Vichy regime banned Rugby-a-Treize as it is known (Rugby thirteen is a rough translation) because it was still in touch with Rugby League in this country. Rugby Union was encouraged, because there was a break in the international relationships.

The Nazi-Vichy government made the following announcement, "The Association called French League of Rugby XIII whose offices are at 24 Rou Drouot, Paris, is dissolved, assent having been refused it.

The property and money of the Association dissolved is transferred to the National Committee of Sports who assume all its charges and who will be represented in the operation of liquidation by its secretary-general, M. Charles Denis.

Signed.

Petaín,
Marshall of France,
Head of French State,
Vichy December 29th 1941.

Thus we had no clubs, no players, no money and only hope.

When France was restored to independance the game grew again and it is organised in two major pools or diversions, with many other leagues ranging from open age down to schoolboy Rugby League football.

The Oldham Schools Rugby League organised trips to the Catalans for a few years, Bob Webb (my son) and Freddie Howarth the headmaster, taking the leading roles in the operations. Many Oldham lads have enjoyed crossing the channel to play Rugby League and at least two were members of our first team squad last season, skipper and loose-forward Terry Flanagan and half-back Paddy Kirwan. More than a dozen Oldham boys who went on these trips have since made the grade as professionals.

Space precludes details of French tours to Australia and New Zealand or their promotion of the World Cup in 1954. If we have another engagement with the boys from across the Channel, we will be able to make amends for not including them on this very special occasion.

VIVA LA FRANCE!

TONIGHT we welcome to Watersheddings the French international Rugby League squad, who are in England for a series of games against club sides to help them prepare for their forthcoming Test series against world champions, Australia.

The Kangaroos go to France when they leave England at the end of November and they will play France in Test matches at Avignon on December 5th and in Narbonne on December 18th.

There will also be a game between the tourists and the French under-24 international side.

Rugby League enthusiasts in this country are well aware of how the Australians have bossed world RL in the past 12 years and the French, like ourselves, are trying to make sure their preparations are sound.

They caused something of a surprise in Venice at the end of July when they beat Great Britain in a match that had two major objectives - to help spread the game in Italy, where attempts were first made to establish our code in the 1950's, and to help both France and Great Britain to get a squad together for the Test battles that lie ahead.

The French, as always, are an unknown quantity. They have a sprinkling of world-class players and can usually be relied upon to play adventurous and attacking Rugby League football, often giving the ball more air than we normally expect to see in an English domestic match.

We feel sure they will play some traditionally attractive football tonight and that Oldham, too, will play their part in the contest.

After tonight's game the French party move over to play Featherstone at Post Office Road on Friday and Wigan at Central Park on Sunday.

Receipts from tonight's match will be divided equally between the Oldham club and the French League.

For the record, the Aussie tour party will be selected on September 26th after the Sydney Grand Final. The squad will leave Australia in two groups, one group flying first to Papua New Guinea for a Test match there and the second heading from Sydney to Western Australia to play a promotional in Perth.

The two groups will later meet up in Singapore and then fly to England, arriving Tuesday, October 5th, five days before the opening match at Hull KR.

The Aussies will play Wales at Cardiff on October 24th and the first Test will place, sponsored by Dominion Insurance, will take place at Hull on Saturday, October 30th.

On Tuesday, November 9th, the Kangaroos will do battle with Cumbria and on Saturday, November 20th they will play Great Britain in the second Test at Wigan.

The third Test will take place - at Leeds - - on November 28th. Early in the New Year, the annual battles between France and Great Britain will take place. The Great Britain under-24 team cross the channel on January 16th, at the same time as our colts international team.

The French under-24 side will make the return trip to England on January 30th. There will be two full Test matches between the two countries - - in France on February 20th and in Great Britain on March 6th, when the colts sides of the two countries will also clash for the second time.

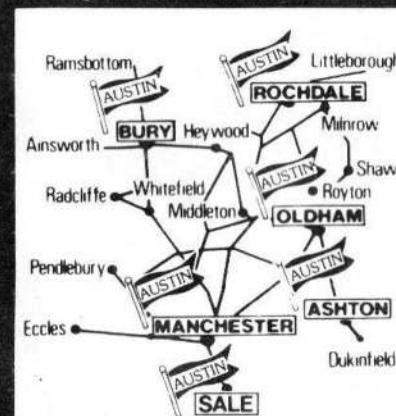

We will get some insight into what lies ahead for our international teams when we see the French boys in action tonight.

Green Vigo gets in at the corners at St. Helens

BRIAN BATTY Daily Mail

The season has barely got into its stride but already it is obvious that things don't change for the better on a couple of counts.

All our hopes over the past few seasons that we would see a gradual improvement in the standard of tackling have not been fulfilled.

After the 78 and 79 Test series we had no illusions about the gulf in defensive play in this country and Down Under.

Unfortunately we don't seem to have done a great deal to narrow the gap just as we are back where we started with the scrummaging.

I have heard a lot of people saying recently that the Aussies are not world beaters and to a degree they may have a valid point.

But they spend so much time and effort in getting the basics right that they have no room for suspect tacklers and it becomes second nature for a player to knock down the opposition.

This is the result of the Sydney League being so competitive and we have to accept that only half a dozen of our clubs could live in such company.

I would love to see an end to this habit of our players reaching out - often off balance - to get hold of an opponent instead of throwing the body into the tackle.

We do not see enough players decked at the first attempt and too often it takes three men where two or even one should be able to do the job.

I saw a top First Division game recently in which four tries were scored as the result of appalling tackling.

Let us hope that the next few weeks see a tightening up of this feature of our play.

Yet it seems that we must be resigned to the scrums remaining a blot on the game after the efforts to clean them up last season.

This is an area which has always been a bone of contention when we've had touring sides here or have sent a squad Down Under.

I just hope again with stricter control we can avoid too many controversies as the tour gets underway.

FLASHBACK by Tom Webb

How many of our supporters remember the corresponding day 5,10,15 years ago?

FIVE YEARS AGO

Oldham had no match. Midweek results were: Dewsbury 3, Hull Kingston Rovers 11, Widnes 37 Wakefield 8 and Salford 21 Warrington 10 in the first division and Workington Town 5 St. Helens 4 in the semi-final of the Lancashire Cup. Hull Kingston Rovers, Salford, Leeds, Bradford and Wigan were the leading first division clubs, Wigan and Bradford having won all their three games and Leeds having won three and drawn one. Oldham were joint fourth in the second division.

TEN YEARS AGO
